Integrated Document Technologies Joins AnyDoc Software's Value-Added Reseller Program

TAMPA, FL — April 29, 2009 — AnyDoc Software, Inc., an industry-leading developer of automated document, data capture, and classification solutions, announced today that Chicago-based Integrated Document Technologies, Inc. (IDT) has joined its value-added reseller (VAR) program.

With more than 15 years of comprehensive enterprise content management (ECM) experience, IDT provides a full range of integrated offerings including software applications, hardware, and systems for scanning and imaging as well as strategic consulting services. As an AnyDoc Software VAR, IDT plans to leverage the combination of their in-depth knowledge of departmental business processes with AnyDoc Software's advanced technologies and solutions to streamline accounting and other organizational processes for their clients.

"What attracted us to partner with AnyDoc was their rich history of successful implementations, especially in the accounts payable market," said Paul Winiecki, national sales manager of IDT. He continued, "AnyDoc's advanced document processing and data capture functionally will dovetail nicely with our own in-house procure-to-pay expertise."

By offering their customers AnyDoc Software solutions, such as the award-winning AnyDoc®INVOICE™, IDT will be providing a new level of technology. Unlike some other invoice solutions on the market, AnyDocINVOICE automatically captures data from incoming vendor invoices, including line item details, without the need for templates or manual "training". By eliminating manual processes, including manual data entry, companies have been able to slash their per invoice processing costs by up to 50 percent, and at the same time boost productivity without adding staff. In most cases ROI can be achieved in less than 12 months.

"IDT is well-respected in the ECM industry," said David Talarico, vice president of channel sales for AnyDoc Software. "Over the past 15 years they have established themselves not only in the accounting vertical but also in manufacturing, order fulfillment, and more. We are pleased to have the opportunity to combine our technical software expertise with their business process knowledge," Talarico added.
